No hope for any large amount to come from collections, and all of city's portion of work contracted for or under way must be paid out of this fund. Work contemplated, but not contracted for, not taken into consideration.

The "American" party administration is so hopelessly swallowed in the sea of debt that it cannot come within $150,000 of paying for its share of the improvements already contracted for. The street fund is depleted, and no recourse can be had to the $100,000 bond issue of several years ago to help pull the city out of its hole, but notwithstanding this fact, the board of public works and the council are going right ahead and letting contracts for hundreds of thousands of dollars without any thought as to the future.

In fact, an official of the board of public works said that he did not know how much money the city would have to pay for its share of the improvements, and councilmen seem equally indifferent. Notwithstanding this, the figures are easily obtainable upon application to the city treasurer. An approximate estimate is given above.

Estimates by Kelsey.

According to an estimate submitted to the city council by J. C. Kelsey, city engineer, the unpaid city's portion of work done prior to March 15 amounts to $3,890. There is owing to contractors for work yet uncompleted and contracted for before March 15 the sum of $181,476. Then there is the item of work contemplated March 15, of which the city's portion would amount to $347,217. Of this last sum the Moran paying contracts for West Temple and Brigham streets only have been let and, according to the city engineer, the city's portion of these will be something like $20,000. Then there must be considered the crosswalk and paving repair contracts for which $25,000 must be appropriated out of the treasury, and an additional $20,000 for engineering work.

Subtracting $11,000 from the city's portion of the work under contract March 15, because of the release of the Utah Fireproofing company from its sidewalk contract, and not taking into consideration any of the work contemplated except the Moran paying contract, which has already been let, it appears that there is a total indebtedness of $263,890 against the city street and sewer funds which must be paid before the end of the year.

Not More Than $100,000.

To pay this there will not be more than $100,000 in the street fund. At the close of business March 31, 1907, there was in the street fund $36,604.46 and in the sewer fund $12,219.13, a total of $48,823.59. Since that time about $16,000 has been paid out of these funds to contractors on city warrants, and there remains only about $32,823.59. This, with the few collections that will come in from time to time during the year, and which will not amount to more than $8,000, will have to pay for the city's portion of the improvements contracted for or under way.

The question is, how is it going to be done? Nobody seems to know. Contractors have not taken any notice of the deplorable condition of the treasury and have grabbed up contracts as fast as the board of public works and the council have been able to let them. They all feel satisfied that even if the city has no money now it will have money some time and will be able to pay.

The "American" party manipulators probably figure that they can postpone payments until after election, and if they are defeated the debt will have to be assumed by the next administration. If they are victorious they will trust to luck to pay the debt.

In view of these facts, which have never before been definitely stated, the

JOHN J. DALY QUILTS MINING GAME AFTER FORTY YEARS OF ACTIVITY

JOHN J. DALY.

Who Is About to Retire as President of the Daly-Judge Mining Company.

Things are happening in the official household of the Daly-Judge Mining company. The annual reports are now being made ready for the mail, and within a few days this valuable document will be in the hands of the shareholders. At the same time the call for the annual meeting, the time for holding which was changed last year from February to May, is being sent out, while John J. Daly, president and manager of the company, is preparing to surrender active participation in the company's affairs and cease the business of mining and mine management for good.

Mr. Daly, owing to ill health, wanted to retire a year ago, but he was finally persuaded to remain another year. Now he says, he will insist on being relieved, as he has promised himself and his family that he will never again go into mines, even for simple inspection purposes, where physical exertion is required to make the trip. He was through the Daly-Judge Friday, and he then bid final adieu to familiar haunts of a lifetime.

It is forty years next month since John J. Daly first became connected with the mining industry. He has worked as miner, mine superintendent, mine manager, promoter of mining enterprises and mining operator for practically all of the time since. He has been a familiar figure in nearly all of the great western camps, and has been prominently identified with the big mines of Nevada and Utah for the past twenty-five or thirty years. He was with the Horn Silver company in its palmy days, and it was soon after his leaving the southern camps that he made his first footprint in Park City.

He went there in 1880 to round up the possessions and open the properties of the Daly Mining company. A few years later he took upon himself the making of another bonanza in the Daly-West. A few years ago he undertook the task of gathering together the immense territory that now constitutes the holdings of the Daly-Judge company, believing then, as he believes now, that the ground will prove immensely productive and rich.

He is not retiring now from choice. Less than two years ago he was compelled to submit to the surgeon's knife and the penetrating influence of the X-ray machine to obtain relief from a bodily ailment. These operations have left him where it is not advisable for him to undertake trips requiring muscular energy. That is why he has finally consented to the entreaties of his family and will hereafter devote his time to affairs less hazardous than climbing about and through the workings of extensively developed mines. That is why he will insist at the approaching annual meeting of the Daly-Judge company upon being relieved from active duty as president of the company and manager of its properties.

Mr. Daly made a big dividend-payer of the Daly; he did likewise with the Daly-West, and he remained with the Daly-Judge until that company also began the distribution of broad money, and while nothing would please him better than to continue the direction of the company's affairs, he realizes that his health will not permit him doing as he would like to do, so he will retire and open the way for others to carry on the work he has so splendidly gotten under way.

course, that the liquor was intended for the parent, the clerk did not hesitate to give it to him. He explained our position to the boy's father and he does not blame us for the sale of the liquor. At the same time our purpose has always been to sell children from the temptations of drink and I think I can safely say that there certainly will be no repetition of the offense as far as our store is concerned.

COMPLAINTS WILL BE FILED

Authorities Investigate Drunkenness of Three Small Boys at Liberty Park.

The authorities are continuing the investigation in the cases of the three boys who were found drunk on the ball grounds at Liberty park Thursday afternoon and complaints against these boys as well as charges against the firms where the liquor was purchased will probably be filed tomorrow. The boys will be given a hearing in the juvenile court Tuesday and the evidence in the case gone over. As a result it was decided that complaints would be filed tomorrow against both the boys and the drugists who performed the sale of intoxicants to minors under all circumstances. In this case it was done, however, and no one regrets that it was done.

The boy's father is a regular customer of our store and the boy asked for the brandy and requested that he be charged to his father. Thinking, of the day the boys say they purchased it there. He said, however, it was not probable that it had been purchased there, but that it was not a rare thing for parents to send children to the drug store for liquor and in this case it was likely that the clerk presumed the boy had secured the liquor for some such purpose and not to drink it.

X. S. Horne said that he had discovered that a pint of peach brandy had been sold to one of the boys by an employee of the Willes-Horne drug company. "Our orders," said Mr. Horne, "have always forbidden the sale of intoxicants to minors under all circumstances. In this case it was done, however, and no one regrets that it was done. The boy's father is a regular customer of our store and the boy asked for the brandy and requested that he be charged to his father. Thinking, of

MANY CHICKENS BURN TO DEATH

Hundreds of Fowls Are Destroyed in Fire at the Cannon Farm.

WOMEN OBSTRUCT ALARM

HOLD TELEPHONE LINE UNTIL TOLD WHERE FIRE IS.

Fire that broke out about 10 o'clock last night destroyed a barn belonging to Preston J. Cannon at Tenth South and Eighth West streets, at a loss of $1,500 and between 700 and 800 chickens. The insurance on the barn was $1,000. The chickens were not insured.

The alarm of fire was turned in at 10:35 o'clock. By the time the department arrived the fire was beyond control. Five horses and a cow and a number of vehicles were rescued from the flames. The fire was caused by an incubator lamp.

The guests at a party at the home of I. E. Willey, a block away, volunteered their services at the fire and rescued all animals except the chickens. One of the horses rescued was a thoroughbred colt valued at $1,500.

Womanly Curiosity.

One of the men at the party telephoned in the fire alarm after considerable difficulty, caused by the animated conversation of two women patrons of the party line he was endeavoring to use. He pleaded with the women to get off the line, but they refused to surrender the line until they had heard where the fire was. After several vain attempts to coax the women to hang up their receivers the excited man finally satisfied their curiosity and succeeded in turning in the alarm.

Two years ago the Cannon farm was visited by a disastrous fire. On that occasion the $50,000 residence building was burned to the ground. There was no insurance on the house.
